Description

Pain and Headache Medicine

Multicenter Interdisciplinary Chronic Pain Group

These monthly multicenter, interdisciplinary chronic pain group meetings bring together clinicians from diverse disciplines (e.g., physicians, physical therapists, pain psychologists, etc.) and from across different national institutions (e.g., Bozeman Health, MT; Virginia Commonwealth University, VA; Case Western Cleveland Medical Center, OH; Medical College of Wisconsin, WI) to interact and address the complexity of treating chronic pain. The meetings incorporate interactive lectures, discussion of challenging cases and review of latest intervention research.

Pain Reprocessing Therapy Consultation Group

Pain Reprocessing Therapy Consultation Group: The Pain Reprocessing Therapy (PRT) program is a novel, evidence-based, non-pharmacologic approach to the treatment of chronic pain. The program is a multidisciplinary effort involving neurologists, psychologists, PTs, PAs and NPs will discuss the diagnosis of migraine disorders and standard of care treatment approaches including pharmacologic and nonpharmacologic strategies. This monthly didactic series will cover key concepts in the diagnosis and management of migraine through diverse lecture topics (given by various members of the clinical team), journal club and case discussions. See next page for last year's didactics topics. The clinical health psychology postdoctoral fellow will also have the opportunity to present on PRT.
